Sermon Scripture:

Matthew 6:25-34

Sermon Thought:

Too often, followers of God get their priorities out of order. Jesus said, when talking about worry, to seek first his kingdom, and the rest would be taken care of. When we continually seek God first, the rest of our lives tend to find order.

Sermon Questions:

- 1. What would a top ten list look like for you finishing the sentence, "I am a...."?
2. Which labels or categories do you find yourself clinging to most tightly?
3. What is one change you can make to help keep your life with the right priorities?

Letter from Westview Boys' Home

Dear Brethren,

Recently, we've spent a lot of time on the road, visiting congregations, taking Westview's exhibit to various workshops and Christian gatherings, and spending time with donors. At every stop, people tell us about what they appreciate about the work we are doing. Their feedback is encouraging and insightful. It helps Westview stay truly focused and remain mindful of why we are here and what we can achieve.

We are truly thankful for your recent financial support, which makes our work with the boys possible. You put food on their plates and give them all the benefits of a loving Christian Home. To watch a boy who once lived in extreme poverty — a boy who worried constantly about hunger and whether he would eat that day — finally relax and feel secure is a powerful thing to witness. Little by little, fear gives way to peace. Anxiety gives way to hope. Because of you, a child who once felt forgotten begins to understand that he is cared for and loved.

It is the monthly support that we receive from congregations and the regular donations we receive from individuals that keep our doors open. As bills come in each month, our ability to pay those bills depends on you. Understanding that dependence keeps us aware of our need to be the best stewards we can be of what you provide, and we work hard to meet that goal. Thank you for strengthening our hands and hearts for service.

Your fellow servant in Christ,
Jason Roark
Program Director
